Dan Walsh graduates from the National School of Banking

PORTLAND, Maine – Dan Walsh, Regional Vice President & Commercial Lender, recently graduated from the American Bankers Association Stonier National Graduate School of Banking in Philadelphia. Walsh completed his course work with the distinction of Valedictorian.

“Dan has worked extremely hard over the last few years in pursuit of this distinction and it was especially enjoyable to see the obvious respect that Dan commanded amongst his fellow students and professors,” explained Patricia Weigel, Executive Vice President, Retail & Commercial Lending at Norway Savings Bank.

The ABA Stonier National Graduate School of Banking is an intensive three-year program for bank executives. Since its inception in 1935, more than 21,000 students have followed a curriculum of more than 45 courses and enjoy networking opportunities with more than 450 fellow students. Students hail from the U.S. and numerous countries around the world, representing banks of all sizes, as well as state and federal regulatory agencies and other financial services organizations. This is the school's 75th year and the session was held June 10 – 18, 2010 at the University of Pennsylvania.

Walsh has been with Norway Savings Bank for 13 years and works from the Congress Street, Portland location. He resides in Falmouth with his wife and two children.
